okes : Red Bank-Major R. L. Rag-

Colonel Charles H. Cabaniss died at is residence, near South Boston, last Sunday. The news of his death will be heard with deepest regret by many readers of the Dispatch throughout the State. His compeers in former days were such men as James C. Bruce, ohn R. Edmunds, William Clarke, David Chalmers, the Logans-and what splendid group of Virginia gentlemen of wealth, refinement, hospitality, and in-tellect they made! The subject of this paragraph was, as were many others, sadly stricken by the deprivations of the civil war, yet under all his accumulating cares and misfortunes he was always bright, genial, and hopeful. He left several grown sons and daughters. His eldest son, Mr. Charles Cabaniss, is a commissioned officer in the United States army. Colonel Cabaniss was buried Monday evening at St. John's Bpiscopal church, Halifax Courthouse, of which church he had long been a baried Mor member.

BRIEFS AND PERSONALS. Colonel John Wimbish, an old and highly-esteemed citizen of this county, is dangerously ill at his residence, at Halifax Courthouse. He was attacked Sanday night with something resembling paralysis, and fears are entertained as to his recovery, although his many friends hope for the best.

The temperance people, or rather bose identified with the Good Templar erganization, were present in force last court-day. They met for consultation. Their meeting was secret, but I learn that they decided to make a strong fight in the County Court next term against liquor-license. There is great diversity of sentiment, and the judge will have to solve a knotty preblem.

"It (the snow) will help everything," said another, " and I know of only one injury it did, and that was the breaking down of the framing over some of the plant-beds." But the arrow-heads the plant-beds." But the arrow-heads are now (9 o'clock) turning towards the south, and now everybody, town and country, is hoping the long-desired to-bacco season will come. Some of the planters are even purchasing what they call "the tobacco orderer." and hope to get some tobacco to market by the use of that instrument.

The Danville people paid over to the internal-revenue collector last week $10,014.32, and nearly all of that was for manufactured tobacco. The amount of the taxes paid by the whole district was $15,867.19.

The site of the proposed new Episcopal colored theological seminary has not yet been located. It will most probably be in Richmond or Petersburg. Several places here have been examined with the view of locating the institution, but no choice has been made. The Episcopal Church has entered heartily into the work of the religious education of the colored people and of training their young men for the ministry, and the results are plainly manifest in the South-Side, ROBIN ADAIR.
